

rws Old Scholars NEWS 2017

Issue 8 | March 2017
OSN Editor: Christine Polyblank

More Old Scholar News collected late 2016.

Yasmin Stephens completed her Honours Degree in Photography at the 'University of the Creative Arts' in Farnham and is now doing her MA. She is hoping to become a University Lecturer and has got a part time job as a lecturer's assistant.

Jad Stephens completed a Level 2 BTEC in Engineering at Brockenhurst with a Merit. He then completed a Level 2 Diploma in Agricultural Engineering at Sparsholt College with a Distinction, and carried on to achieve his Level 3 Diploma as well. Jad has decided he would like to train as a Heating and Plumbing Engineer and is currently looking for an apprenticeship.

Maya Avis is in her second year of a PhD in Anthropology of Development in the Graduate Institute in Geneva. She will soon leave to her field work - a year with the Bedouins of Southern Israel and the Palestinian Territories. She travels a lot and works with refugees in Switzerland, many of them from Syria. Maya was at school, in Elaine's class, from Class 2-8 and then attended the Aquila Project at Sturts Farm for 2 years.

Dan Avis is working as a news producer in the BBC World Service. He's particularly interested in world news. He's been living in London for the past 5 years. Dan did one Kindergarten year and then Classes 1-6 with Geli.

Caitlin Parks joined the school in Class 2, remaining until she left at the end of class 8 (2007?), then joining most of her classmates at the Aquila Project at Sturts Farm for 2 years. 'A' Levels at Brockenhurst followed and then onto the Foundation course at Arts University Bournemouth. In 2014, she graduated with a First Degree Honours in Illustration and Visual Communication from the University of Westminster. Since then, Caitlin has spent the last 2 years setting up Underway Studio, a screen printing and illustration collective in London. Recently, Caitlin was one of the illustrators behind the installation "Ecotopia" which explored ideas of a sustainable future and which was on display at The London Design Festival. "Ecotopia" is currently on show in Porto, Portugal, as part of the Utopia500 Festival.

Visit her work at:
www.caitlinparks.com

Caitlin with a wolf